

For Disposable Gloves, “Thin Is In!”

In the past, if you wanted better protection, you had to put more material between you and what you wanted to protect yourself from.

In the world of disposable gloves, controlling the stability, viscosity, and uniformity of coverage on the formers had not yet been perfected. But that was OK, because thicker was better!

Luckily, due to recent advantages in chemistry, and the mechanical advancements of glove production, “thinwall technology” has been created! This means gloves that were previously dipped four or five times, resulting in a four or five mil glove, can now be dipped only once or twice achieving the same reasonable assurance of tear resistance. These gloves, because they are physically thinner, naturally offer more dexterity. And because they use less material, can be offered at a lower price!

Today’s “thinwall technology” offers better strength than previous gloves of the same thickness, but this does NOT mean that they can offer the exact same protection as thicker gloves under all circumstances. Chemicals that the gloves will be used with, the physical demands of the location where the glove will be used, the length of time the glove will be expected to perform, medical dangers, and even the environmental conditions of use, will all play major roles in deciding what mil thickness is right for your specific job.

This is why Eagle Dairy Direct® and AMMEX® offer a variety of options to best suit your needs. Not using AMMEX gloves, and not sure which ones to try? Contact Eagle Dairy Direct today and one of our sales representatives will be happy to help you find the right glove and even send out samples, so you can “Try Before You Buy.” ♦

All it takes is the right amount of Mil Power!™

Thanks to new “thinwall technology”, AMMEX® now offers several mil weights of their most popular gloves. That means you decide the right amount of protection that fits your job... and your budget.
